

It's Not Just Words And Numbers.

8 years sounds not much. We have been Working on something that can truly make a difference. Now, all the late nights and extra hours have been worth it, and I would like to share our passion.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Rabbitty is the first app of several that fits into a master plan, leading us to build a corporation, a lifestyle, a new way of living.

Nowadays some companies have done outstanding work in different markets. But we think they sell what they offer, for example: Uber = rides, Airbnb = accommodations, Spotify = music, etc. What they are truly selling is time, they all have that factor in common; they save you a bunch of time and give you comfort.

"If you can simplify a current market, product or experience, you have a real opportunity to provide value to the end consumer."

Rabbitty saves you a lot of time. One of the bigger attractions is that we are a social media, merging the best things of each in the current market, and innovating in other sections to allow a bigger range of people to be part of it. We encourage the users to not use anything else by having what they need and want in just one app; Social media (trends and innovation), all kinds of shopping with huge rewards, emergency stuff, maps of everything you need to know about your city, share experiences, safe spending, encrypted and private message service (and other communications). On the other side, businesses have a great competitive advantage by using Rabbitty as their main source of work; Marketing, POS system & inventory, Administration & accountability, ROI optimization, Analytics, Charge and use of bank accounts and cards within the app.

- This is a great app for people and businesses. It's bound to grow, it's fun, it's exciting, and it's everything that you want to be a part of.

Rabbitty teaches us to be more human in a world full of technology and apps, making every customer a long-haul partner. We keep track of customer satisfaction, continuously innovating to stay aligned with customer needs in an ever-changing market. And the most important—the art of staying connected.

Customers have so many choices. It's no wonder connections have been difficult to maintain in the past. However, with Rabbitty, there's no longer any reason businesses can't have a personal, one-on-one relationship with every single customer they serve and know what they like.

"It's critical to personally connect with every customer."

People decide to be loyal to a businesses because of the rewards they offer, the awards people can get, or other bonuses.

It's human nature to stay with a company that is easy to do business with. Once customers know how the company operates, and how to use the website or mobile app, they can rely on a consistent experience, and customers like consistency. It creates confidence. That's what drives loyalty.

Managing what matters in just one place, having the favorite companies at hand to ask for a service, being able to get benefits from what they spend, getting rewarded and use those rewards towards anything is wanted, save it for something special, putting it into a savings account, or trade it for cash. It is a #lifestyle App.

Rabbitty allows us to develop what we called "bunz" to offer rewards and growth to other markets, adding power and value to our currency. By increasing value to bunz we gain more power in everything we do.

Rabbitty at its full potential will have reached several markets and gained trust within our community; Social Media, Businesses Tools, Secure Payment Method (within the app and for the outside world), Free Market (Shopping) & Services, Maps, Banking Services (savings account, compound interest).

Some apps to develop next, right after and within, the same timeline of Rabbitty:

- Trade Exchange (B2B & P2P, products and services)
- Advertising Company (Website, sports, radio)
- Online Banking (Secure Payment Method and Banking services)
- Crowdfunding
- Skills Platform (Selling abilities & skills online - fiverr type)

CONCEPT

Rabbitty goes beyond just another App. It is a #lifestyle. It's a place where you can have and do all of what you need in a beautiful, nice and simple way.

What if you could save time on the things you do now and be even more productive, or take more advantage of your time and do the things that matter the most?

I divide Rabbitty into two sections that involve a lot of features: For businesses, and for people.

For Businesses; the ultimate marketing tool. Convenience is king. If you can simplify a current market, product or experience, you have a real opportunity to provide value to the end consumer. Evolve your game plan and gain a real competitive advantage. We're about SPEED and CONVENIENCE as the two main things that will help us, and your business, succeed.

As a business you can have what you need in just one place.

- and a lot more!

"Convenience is king"

Nowadays, marketing for business is becoming harder and harder. Even though we are in a future where everything is digital, many businesses only follow what others do.

"Everything is about communication". Rabbitty becomes the marketing tool of the new era, a new trend.

For People. I can't imagine why we haven't had this in the past. It does everything we need for our lifestyle, whatever it is. Imagine being able to manage what matters to you in just one place. Imagine having your favorite companies at your fingertips to ask for a service. Imagine being able to get benefits from what you spend, get rewarded and use those rewards towards anything you want, save it for something special, putting into a savings account, or even trade it for cash!

Rewards

One of the main pillars of Rabbitty is a “Rewards Program” based on electronic money (“bunz”). It means that we are a community, we build up affiliates, and they give rewards to those who spend money with them as a thank-you. The minimum reward a business can give you is 20%. It can be as high as 100% of what you spend, and these huge rewards make Rabbitty the best program out there.

You earn bunz (electronic money) when you spend at your favorite places. You can save them for something special, or spend them whenever you want.

It is also a social media app. You can share your shopping, your bunz, brag about them with your friends. Earn even more rewards for doing so, in our totally innovative feed, with all the cool features trending. People can share experiences, have an encrypted message service, full map of services with filters to showcase what you are looking for; best places in the city, emergencies, services, stores, tours, taxis, accommodations and more.

“We feel that every aspect of life has been improved by technology, moreso in the past few years. Nowadays we have many examples of how technology does better our lives, but no one has found a solution for the money problems of the average person. We knew there has to be a better way of spending and getting more out of our hard-earned money. We want everyone in the world with the ability to get more out of life.”

Apps & Markets

Rabbitty is put together as one app that does a lot of things in one place. We intend to keep people connected to our app by having all they need and want. At the same time, the parts that make Rabbitty what it is are separate businesses on their own. We will be launching each one of these businesses separately from Rabbitty to create other sources of revenue and capture other markets. This will also help us to get even a larger community that absolutely can be connected to the main thing that is Rabbitty.

We will be reaching into other markets, and the main apps that make Rabbitty possible are:

- Social Media (innovation and combination of the best apps). See Annex A
- Encrypted Message Service (Deliver better and more secure service). See Annex B
- Shopping (Mercadolibre, ebay, amazon, shopify). See Annex C
- Products & Services (Online barter, airbnb, restaurants, teaching, health and others). See Annex D
- Advertising (Tripadvisor, google my business and others). See Annex E

- Marketing (Facebook & Instagram adds, marketing and statistics). See Annex F
- Business Tools (POS, Admin and accountability platform, others). See Annex G
- Banking & Payment Method (Paypal, izettle, online banking). See Annex H

Our goal is to connect to the people's minds, to be a partner in crime, and to have the largest community. We want to grow "bunz" to the level of a currency, and then expand our efforts to other already successful markets, companies such as: Paypal, Airbnb, Uber, and others.

The key to our success will be to maintain a relationship one-on-one with every customer without having to be there, by offering all they need in one place. We are building Rabbitty as a community, and implementing a referral system. The referral system allows us to grow in a better way. "Give to get" is the master key to success.

MARKET & Customer Analysis

Life has taught us that to be successful and to be selected, we have to give without expecting anything in return, and therein lies abundance. In a perfect world, giving without expecting from others would lead us to an abundant world. But what happens in the business world, and how does give-to-get apply?

I'm talking about the most important thing in a business: the customer.

You will have to eliminate the desire to obtain before making it real. Before even trying to think about making a customer profitable, we have to offer value to them, the prospects, and the public in general—what is it that you do, and what is the value you can offer?—We need the attention of the users. And the best way to do it is to offer value of our knowledge, our experiences, and our stories. Connect with people and offer them something human, someone to engage with and relate to, because at the end everything is about human relationships.

Let's win people's attention, our biggest marketing strategy that is not an excuse to avoid a sales strategy. With Rabbitty we ensure a system in place, we offer the people a huge community filled with not just needs, but what they love to do, and what they would love to have. Gathering in one place ways to share experiences and stories about their lives, giving them purpose to be more social and encourage them to participate in a still physical world. In this virtual environment we push our community to be more human.

One of the bigger reasons why rabbitty is a must-do is how much a business can benefit from it. At the same time they offer great value to their customers, and obtain a profitable market.

Google's mobile path to purchase report surveyed 950 US consumers across 9 different verticals (Restaurants, Food & Cooking, Finance, Travel, Home & Garden, Apparel & Beauty, Automotive, Electronics, Health & Nutrition) to assess how they researched purchases via mobile. A key finding is the starting point for mobile research. As might be expected, search was the most common starting point, but it's lower than desktop, showing the importance of branded apps and mobile sites.

MARKETING Strategy

Our main strategy is people. By deploying all of our efforts into the people and businesses, we encourage the most important way of advertising, which is word of mouth, of course. Within our app we will have ways to advertise Rabbitty to people and businesses; there is always something people want and we can get it for them, and even better give them rewards for obtaining it through us. At the same time we can push people to ask us for a product or service, and with this strategy we can get businesses by offering them a wide wallet of people who already want to buy from them with Rabbitty app. The actual use of current social media is also important to us.

Not only are mobile, social media and email tactics being widely used, but using a combination of all three makes it even better. Rabbitty makes a perfect match to this marketing trifecta.

Automation makes the processes at the businesses efficient, and will bring more customers.

It costs five times as much to attract a new customer than to keep an existing one. The first rule of any business is to retain customers and build a loyal relationship with them, thereby avoiding customer acquisition costs.

“Acquiring new customers is important, but retaining them accelerates profitable growth.”

Stay connected

As the old verse goes, “Make new friends, but keep the old. One is silver, the other gold.” Similarly, a long-term customer is of more value than a single-deal customer, and it's a lot less expensive to keep a current customer than to acquire a new one. This is not to say that we shouldn't go out and get new customers. But if we can keep a larger percentage of those customers for a longer life cycle, we build on a revenue foundation that is more profitable and predictable, two factors that have created tremendous wealth for entrepreneurs.

Rabbitty makes every customer a long-haul partner. Keeping track of customer satisfaction, continuously innovating to stay aligned with customer needs in an ever-changing market. And the most important—the art of staying connected.

Forget about lack of connection. Customer satisfaction and loyalty mean nothing if you can't remember exactly who it was who did that phenomenal job of fixing your kitchen two years ago, or where that ironman shop is that did such great work restoring your fences when they were falling last year. Disconnection is the reason why so many one-time sales that are completely satisfying never translate into lifetime customers. Rabbitty keeps record of every single client you had, what they got, their preferences, etc.

Customers have so many choices. It's no wonder connections have been difficult to maintain in the past. However, with Rabbitty, there's no longer any reason businesses can't have personal, one-on-one relationships with every single customer they serve, and know what they like to buy.

For a business to survive in the coming years, it's critical to personally connect with every customer because with advances in technology and increased competitive pressures, if you don't connect, someone else probably will.

If people ask this: Why should we consider connecting with Rabbitty?

- 64% of Americans prefer getting customer support via text messages.
- The read rate of text messages is far higher than that of any other medium.
- Connect with your customers in so many ways. Know exactly what they want and improve your service.
- All the marketing tools that cost a lot—businesses get them for free!

Competitive Analysis

Why Loyalty Programs are key to success? Existing customers spend 67% more than new customers. In short, customer loyalty really pays off—and customer loyalty programs pay for themselves.

Most people think of loyalty programs like an airline that gives miles to frequent fliers, or a hotel that gives points toward a stay, or a restaurant that offers a punch card incentive. These may be called loyalty programs, but in reality they are just another way of marketing. Don't take it wrong, there is nothing bad about that, but there is a lot more to a loyalty program.

People decide to be loyal to a business because of the rewards they are offered, the points they get, or any other reward.

There's a reason why theater-goers go to the movies that offer the most points, even if it means paying more for a ticket. Actually, these customer loyalty programs do work to drive sales and create repeat business. Customers are loyal to a restaurant, hotel, or other businesses because of points/credit/reward more than anything else.

Strategy

Strategic companies are now looking beyond these rewards programs to delight, create and retain loyal customers. They are looking to solve customer problems and provide value to them.

It's about taking their loyalty to the next level. It's more than just points or credits, even more than marketing. It's creating a convenient experience for the customer, one that customers want to use. In many cases today, companies are doing this by providing an app for customers' smartphones.

For example, members of the rewards program can download a mobile app and use it to do other things, such as check the status of their hotel room, check in at a restaurant, check for products or services to redeem with their points, and more. You'll find it a lot easier to do business with the companies that provide an app and a rewards program, and the process can be really simple.

Lifestyle

Apps like the one you get from Starbucks are great examples. It's not only a rewards program, but a way to place your order, pay for it, and even access streamed music. As members earn stars toward rewards in the My Starbucks Rewards program, they can redeem the rewards in real time. The app reinforces the Starbucks brand as a lifestyle enhancement.

Walgreens has an app that allows customers to refill prescriptions, monitor their orders, pay using their phone, and earn and redeem rewards in the Balance Rewards program. Like the Starbucks app, it is a lifestyle app that keeps Walgreens top-of-mind with its customers.

Not to mention Amazon Prime. When the program began, the membership fee paid to Amazon provided Prime members with free shipping. Today there is much more. For $99 a year, the program offers not only free shipping, but also other benefits such, as live streaming music, movies and TV shows, storage for digital photos, and more. Amazon Prime is integrated into the customer's life. For the person who takes full advantage of the Amazon Prime membership, the benefits can far exceed the annual fee. And as a result of paying for a membership, the customer will buy more often from Amazon. Amazon also offers apps for its website, music, TV and movies, and more.

"Customers are aware of their experience with a brand that engages and provides value to them. Discounts are forgotten. Loyalty growth in a company depends on making customers' lives easier and providing value."

A tendency is being created.

Evolving from a punch card to an app, create a lot more opportunities to interact, and build customer loyalty growth exponentially. An app can include features that are limited only by the imagination. And the convenience of using an app is a powerful driver of loyalty. It's human nature to stay with a company that is easy to do business with. Once customers know how the company operates and how to use the website or mobile app, they can rely on a consistent experience, and customers like consistency. It creates confidence. That's what drives loyalty.

For the first time, I can see a program that contributes to people getting more out of their hard-earned money. The program evolves beyond trends, with life, and provides what customers and companies need in the difficult times we face today.

Rabbitty an amazing way of spending. It's simple, going beyond just a loyalty or rewards program. It's going beyond strategy, it's user friendly, it's smart marketing without lifting a finger. It's a lifestyle and social app, and much more.

Approach

We will be approaching the customer in a deeper way, stopping research in a traditional way, and knowing how deep the human brain can be, to read biologically their behavior. This will give us a lot more elements to reach a wider market.

Like, how is it possible that apples with caramel are one of the best sellers at fairs in the United States? An apple is healthy and your brain knows it, but you like caramel, and try to cheat your own brain about it.

OPERATIONAL Strategy

Rabbitty will be a very user-friendly app, with all you need to operate it as a Rabbitter or an Affiliate. Every Affiliate will include a Rabbitter account that can be activated at any time to enjoy its benefits. And every Rabbitter will be able to request an account to have a "Rabbitty Business," a business that will have all that affiliates have, but intended to be as a personal, or non-registered business.

Everyone can have an account and easily join with the different ways of signing up. It is adapted to every phone, like fingerprint or facial recognition access, and it will be available for Android and iOS.

All users can also access through the website and manage Rabbitty from there. They can also download the plugin for google chrome or the app for windows or iOS devices.

Affiliates will have better access on the website to manage administrative, accountability, and banking.

Admin & Management. We will build and maintain customer relations by having 24-hour support via in-app text messages, phone calls, and email. We will still have all possible answers within our platform in FAQ's and support. Constant improvement and updates will be released, as well as continuous market research and customer satisfaction reports.

A group of programmers divided into the different areas will be in charge of developing the app. The CEO & CMO will be the main positions to manage the company. As we grow in users, more personnel to manage the app will be needed.

The Shopping Process - Rewards. Find out about your favorite places and the rewards offered. Buy online, or directly with the affiliates. It is as simple as spending as you normally do. Affiliates will scan your account to approve your reward and give you "bunz."

Receive your bunz directly into your account. Choose to save them for something special, or spend them whenever you want.

Spend your bunz:

1. In the app buying a product or service.
2. Go to a place and spend bunz directly.

The affiliate will scan your account to check out the transaction. If you have enough bunz the full amount will be charged, or a split bill can be done. Pay with your bunz balance, and get the difference in cash.

Personnel

The plan is to hire the programmers, designers, and a marketing team as soon as we have the budget. The marketing team will start campaigns in the early stages, and prepare people to join. The goal is to have them ready and waiting to join months before the launch.

Before the launch of the app we will be ready with all of the staff needed to manage the app; Contact & Support, Marketers, administration, financial, Sellers.

Every one of them plays a huge role in the success of Rabbitty. We believe in building the employees as part of a family, allowing them constant learning, incentives, and awards. A happy working team makes a successful company.

MANAGEMENT

Expert on marketing & Founder of Rabbitty, Marco Del Toro.

I have been developing and constantly improving the idea for several years. I have taken into consideration many factors and experiences. My intention with Rabbitty is to get into the subconscious minds of people. As a marketer, sometimes the same strategies are applied to grow a business. With Rabbitty, I applied all the knowledge I gathered to ensure success. Innovation fails for different reasons, but for me, most important is the lack of comprehension by the end consumer. By escaping old ideas, the difficulty of learning how to unlearn has gone to me, and I have used techniques that can be understood more deeply, to achieve a greater connection with the end consumer.

Consumers don't know what they want. "You just cannot ask your clients what they want and give them that." —Steve Jobs.

It is very difficult for customers to express what they want even if they know. That's why I have been studying not just the words of the consumer, but in interpretation and observation. That's why Rabbitty becomes a symbol. Today, the things can be worth more for what they mean, than for what they are.

I am also a current user of all social media, shopping and lifestyle apps, and a business owner and entrepreneur. My journey gives me a great background to qualify and innovate in this market.

FINANCIAL Model

We have three sources of revenues: In App advertising, In-app purchases & Cash Conversions.

As a social media we will be selling advertising within our app, and that will represent a big percentage in our income.

As mentioned before, businesses will have a “Power-up Tool” with enough to keep track of everything in the business. We also have other tools that can be paid tools: Extensive inventory track, Accountability extensive tool, among others.

By having our own bank of bunz at our disposal, we will expand to any market on our list as fast as needed, growing our currency, and rewarding people with bunz in exchange for cash. By having such great tools for businesses, we will be able to open them up for the market in cash, driving even more people to Rabbitty and our other platforms.
